A complete. WinFeed 2.8 description. WinFeed 2.8 is a powerful tool for automated feed formulation, mixing and production of liquid feeds. A complete.Q: Interactive Schema Design I have an idea for a web app that has users and widgets. Here is an example. User 1 is Bob and uses widgets 1, 2 and 3. Widget 1 should be an account creator and widget 3 should have a URL. User 2 is Alice and uses widgets 1, 2 and 3. Widget 1 should have a URL. When widget 3 has a URL, the user of widget 3 should be logged in. When a user tries to create a widget, I don't want to have an account form, because it's too much overhead. Maybe just have a user info form for Alice. What would be the best way to do this? A: JSF has several solutions for this, given your example. Display a custom menu item in the navigation tree, using the 'foo.bar' convention. This will display a list of items, e.g. 'foo.bar.account, foo.bar.widget, etc. The toolkit has a FormTab for generic use case, including a navigation tree on the side of the form, and a dialog on the bottom of the form to hide the navigation tree and form elements when the dialog is shown. Notice that this may display several dialogs per page/form.

The FormToolkit has a custom navigation tag for the dialog navigation. This may be the simplest approach. Further explanations and solution links are given in these related (not always up-to-date) posts Presenting modal dialog with JSF

Its like you read my mind! You seem to know a lot about this, like you wrote the ebook in it or something. I think that you can do with a few pics to drive the message home a little bit, but instead of that, this is fantastic blog. An excellent read. I will definitely be back. ||
